Professional Reference for Patrick Crocetta, Jr.

As Executive Director of the New York Housing Association for over 16 years and working for the Association for over 22 years I had the chance to know Patrick when he first started his professional career in the housing industry back in 1993. He started working for Champion Home Builders as a manufacturing sales representative in Sangerfield, N.Y. I remember Patrick as being very energetic and a self-starter. His hard work signing up new retailers in New York and New England quickly made Patrick a success and in a few years he was offered a job with Commodore Homes in Clarion, PA. Patrick continued to be involved with the New York Housing Association as he handled sales accounts for NY, PA and New England for Commodore Homes. In brief, Patrick continues to this day to be dedicated and intense about the industry, while still maintaining his friendly and honest nature. Having known Patrick since 1993 and know him to be of the highest moral and ethical character. He is a proven leader whose well-rounded knowledge of many aspects of the industry, from manufacturing to community development and retail sales makes him a prominent authority and relevant personality in the manufactured home business.
